

Report to the Agricultural Economics Society: Travel Grant

Event: 17th Congress of European Association of Agricultural Economists, Rennes, 2023

Dr. Ana Claudia Sant'Anna

Division of Resource Economics and Management, West Virginia University

I am thankful for receiving the AES Travel grant in 2023 which aided in my attendance and presentation at EAAE in Rennes 2023. This was my first time at a triannual conference. This year the conference counted with 1200 participants from all over the world. Being at EAAE allowed me to network with academics outside of the United States and identify future collaborations. I reconnect with old acquaintances and finally met in person peers I had only met online. During the conference I presented two posters and acted as a moderator. The participation and feedback from the audience excelled my expectations. The feedback received is being incorporated into the final draft of the papers.

Posters presented:

"How To Reach Minority Farmers? Drawing On Needs Identified From The Paycheck Protection Program" co-authored with Kevin Kim and Iryna Demko. Aug. 30th 2023 9-10:30am

"Identifying Linkages Between Women, Non-White Farmers, And The Level of Diversity In The Leadership Of A Major US Ag Lender" co-authored with Ranjita Bhandari. Aug 31st 2023 9-10:30am

Session moderated:

Chair for the Poster Session Development Economics 1 on Aug 31st from 9-10:30am
